2) The question of allowing Special rates of T.a. to members of D.P. Dispensaries has been discussed at length in file 68-09. Ordinarily the members in a Dispensary being inferior servants the T.a admissible to them under the rules was inadequate, & too small to cover the actual Expenses incurred. The Senior Surgeon was therefore attempting to bring their case under one of the Special articles of the M.S.R granting 'actual Expenses' ~~of~~ and to give them Special rates.

3) In the present case there is no such difficulty. The principle has been admitted that Government furnish their officers Conveyance to draw their pay ~~etc~~, T.a & Contingencies at a fair reasonable rate and when the fair was far off incurring of extra expenditure during a journey on tour and justify the grant of allowances at the rates prescribed in the Regulations, do not appear to exist in the case of a journey performed to cash bills. No doubt such journeys should be regarded as having been performed in the course of public business, and allowances paid. but there appears to be no justification for allowing the same rates as for journeys on tour.

Unless it is proved that a journey for cashing bills is less expensive than one made in the course of a tour I can not see how the T.A. for the former can be less than that for the latter. A person performing a journey for attending a departmental exam.ⁿ or for appearing as a witness in his official capacity before a court of law is given ordinary T.A. and I think the same T.A. can not be refused to an officer who, under proper authority, travels for cashing bills.
